

Autumn

09-10-2012 by Harry Zirkelbach

For each
Autumn introduces the hint of change.
Yet, each sees in the season whatever change they choose.

As autumn began in the Mile High city in 2012
with a summer record of ninety degree summer days, it is only natural that everyone expects the weather to moderate.

But enthusiasm for life and the next sunrise need not moderate with this autumn, especially for those calling Denver their home. Every day remains a delight.

Because, this year Autumn introduces a new season for the Denver Broncos, with renewed hope for victories, perhaps even a final New Orleans game in Super Bowl 47. All this excitement, courtesy John Elway as cheerleader, Peyton Manning as the eleven man offensive field guide. Yes, the hope begins at home, and will continue as autumn leaves are replaced by winter snows.

Are you excited? More than a few living in Windsor Gardens are.

And before all autumn leaves have fallen, the Men's Club of Windsor Gardens will host a representative of the Denver Broncos as guest speaker.

As test of your enthusiasm, be in the Mens Club audience October 13.
Come early that Saturday at 09:30 for coffee, donuts and friendship exchange.
Then get better acquainted with the Bronco schedule thru the eyes of Fred Fleming a man who played in the Canadian football league long ago, has followed the Broncos all games with the last two owners.

Become a fanatic.

All sports involve youth, a few rules, loyal support of the locals, win or lose.

Of course the enthusiasm this Autumn is exaggerated because of the excitement generated by this very thought, the local boys will represent your Mile High city very well.
