

Time Machine

No machine will ever control time.
Yes, locks, clocks, machines, may be changed.

I hope this is not a surprise to any,
but you cannot go back to any yesterday
and truly make amends.

So, today be nice to everyone,
sleep better all those tomorrows.

A few lines in the Journal I maintain,
tells me,

Be reasonable with all.
Better to have left an unkind word unsaid,
though truthful.

Today is all. Tomorrow; you in eternity.

If in doubt, I suggest you drive to the Crab Shack Restaurant, 14025 E Evans,
memorize their sign,
FREE LUNCH TOMORROW. Heed it.

This producer of delicacies,
has never had to provide anyone
with a meal that was free.
Their request, always a day early.
That elusive tomorrow,
when you are going to win millions,
naturally, it's shared with friends.

And remember the words of Denver's Happy Harry Zeno,
"Join me on the morrow when we'll get up
before dawn stand on our Golf Course,
face west, admire the redness of the rising sun."
Or, "Join me at my Restaurant, The Punch Bowl, where I just cheated the last customers and will pass on those savings to you."

In reality, In spite of what has ben said, Never cease trying to influence the unmovable.
Always remember, yesterday is unreachable;
today is at hand; recognize the difference;
use your Time Machine to influence the Now.
