

Creating Heaven on Earth: Dream Big

by Liz Gibbons

In my ascension to the throne I will have a simple televised coronation followed by a short address outlining the general changes I intend to embark upon. Our motto will be “creating heaven on earth.” We will work toward an open and free society. Everyone will have a role in this. Mutual respect, love, compassion and kindness will be imperative for us to move forward together.

Now for the details. I will meet with sheriffs and police chiefs to form a plan to deal effectively and humanely with criminal problems. I will meet with the leaders of Parliament to re-establish ruling according to the original intent of our founding document. There will be a lot of resistance by special interest groups. Wherever I have the authority I will nullify any rulings not in alignment with the original document. A new method of selecting members of Parliament will be enacted. Political parties will be eliminated. Serving as a government official will be a privilege, and terms will be limited to two or four years. No career politicians. No lobbying by corporations or special interest groups will be allowed. Voting will require a photo ID and will be by paper ballot. Government will be downsized; its main function will be to protect the citizens of the county.

I will meet with reporters and implore them to return to their role as investigative reporters. The true history of our country and the world, including secret societies and other bodies that have controlled us, are to be revealed. We are going to take the red pill and see how deep the rabbit hole goes. What we know about UFOs and ETs will be disclosed.

In late May in all communities there will be a weeklong “Celebration of Life” with concerts, sporting events, parades, picnics, and other activities. Admission to all events will be free. Performers will be compensated by the Royal Treasury. At the start of the week I will announce that I will dissolve the monarchy over the next two to three years. It no longer serves a purpose. I and my family are no different than you, so why should we have control over your life. The money in the Royal Treasury will be transferred to our country’s Treasury. Miscellaneous fees will cover our government’s expenses so the income tax will be repealed.

Criminal prisoners will be rehabilitated whenever possible. Fluoridation of water will stop. In medicine, advanced healing methods will be revealed. People will learn how to keep themselves healthy. Permaculture and organic agriculture will be encouraged. There will be an emphasis on helping our citizens internalize that they are sovereign beings who do not need to be told what to do. The educational system will be overhauled so that children do not spend the majority of their childhood in boring classrooms. Children will be encouraged to follow their interests at an early age. There will be more hands-on learning and more mentoring programs. It will be the responsibility of parents to give their children moral values. It is said that when people are virtuous there is no need for courts of law for they will govern themselves. You may worship God in any manner you choose.

This may sound like a utopian dream. By expressing love, compassion and kindness to all, we raise the vibration of our surroundings. We can evolve together. You do have freedom to devise the life you love. Accept the challenge. Dream Big!
