

A BIRTHDAY CARD

By Mike Harris

I passed over the subject for this week "The Turkey" more because of a personal need: my son's birthday. For weeks I have been searching the greeting card racks, trying to find an appropriate birthday card for my son. Finally in desperation I am writing my own personal birthday card. So a birthday card to my son from his ninety-six year old father ...

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

You add the years one by one.
You now count sixty-one.
You have always made me proud.
I have never hesitated to shout it loud!!!

You wear success with consummate grace.
You have your priorities always in place.
Your personal family always came first.
It is an enduring unquenchable thirst.

The empty nest has a hollow place
Do not walk, do not run, but RACE !!!
The golden years to embrace.
Let nothing or anyone get in your way
While you and Anne relearn about early love and play.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS
LOVE DAD
