

Older Lady's Lament

by Marilyn Reeves

Wrinkles, wrinkles go away!
I'm too young to look this way.

Crèmes and lotions
And youthful potions
I've been applying
Night and day.

What new old face is this I see?
The one that's looking back at me.
Go away old face, 'cause I'm still young
I want to dance and have some fun.

Slimming clothes and push-up bras
Trying to hide those figure flaws.

Are hugs and kisses all behind me?
And where's the one
Who's s'posed to find me?

Please don't tell me it's too late
'Cause I'm still waiting for that special date.

Wrinkles, wrinkles go away!
I'm too young to look this way.
