

It Is All About Time

By Sharon Buchan

Some say you can't give it away.
And you can't make it stay
Even though Jim Croce tried
You can't save it in a bottle.
It won't go faster if you push it to full throttle.

When I was young I wanted it to go faster
But lipstick and high heels when you are young
Can be a disaster.
Now that I am older I want time to go slower
Why is it that time seems stronger and boulder?

When I was working there were countless classes
And seminars on saving time. I often heard,
"After all it is the company's dime."
Surely when I retire I will have more time than ever.

I will have time for all the fun,
Interesting and stimulating classes and clubs
Just waiting for my endeavor.

I will swim, read and I will write.
I will act, sing and dance.
I will give more to family,
Friends and others.
Doesn't that all sound fine?

And just what can I give to others?
I can give the precious gift of time.
After all now, it really is my own dime.

So please don't hurry,
But come with me and sup
For who knows when the bell will toll
And we will hear, "Your time is up."
