

Accidents That Happen to Good People

by Suzy Hopkins

They shot it down like it was a threat to the Ukrainians. But Malaysia Flight MH17 was full of families. Now their relatives cannot even be sure the coffin they have been given actually contains their loved one and they are too afraid to look as most of the bodies were badly burned. These were innocent travelers who are the victims of being blown out of the sky by a government who, to this day, has never apologized or accepted responsibility for this terrible accident. Their only statement was, "We told you to stay out of our airspace." Of the 298 killed, over 100 were leading AIDS researchers, doctors and activists who were helping the world cope with this devastating virus and now have been taken from that cause. These were definitely good people.
