

Be Thankful for What You Have

by Suzy Hopkins

How wonderful the world is depends on where you live.

School girls are kidnapped by the hundreds in parts of Africa. Ukrainians are living in bombed out houses with no water or electricity. Millions of Syrians are refugees living in tents with not enough food or water.

There are many other examples of humans doing terrible things to other humans.

In America we are lucky. Most of us have food and water and electricity and a chance to better ourselves. Don't take it for granted. Be thankful for what you have.
