

Good for All

By Suzy Hopkins

If I were a queen of a country like the USA I would make every household have staff: cooks, chauffeurs, cleaners, nannies, gardeners, bookkeepers and car mechanics. They would come from the unemployables who have limited English, little or no skills but who want to learn something valuable that they will be eventually paid to do. The house they work in teaches these willing but unskilled people. They would live with the families for two months while they are trained and will be hired by the training home or will go into a pool of skilled workers at agencies all over the country. This would diminish the homeless population to people who don't want to work or are addicts.

Our economy would be strengthened by providing more workers with money to spend in the USA and cause the beginning of a whole new life for the participants.
