

Truth Individual

By Eydie McDaniel

A quote of Confucius says that a statue could not be created by smashing marble with a hammer and the spirit or soul could not be released by force.

As much as I hold many deep beliefs, no enormity of words can make my point more convincingly, nor should it. Only in humble willingness I believe true wisdom will always arrive in its own way, in its own time, and in its own definition unfolding individually in each receiving mind.

My reply to "I Know This Much Is True": Being fully human; for a time I get to live and witness vast, beautiful earthly and spiritual mystery. Humility to accept, serve, and rely upon that will always open my highest truth and my greatest joy.
