

My Favorite Time of the Year!

By Joan Mish

My favorite months on the calendar are September and October. I have many birthdays and anniversaries of my children: one son married 13 years and the other son married 24 years. Both weddings were small and only filled with family. Then in October I have three birthdays of my children. This time of year is filled with memories.

But another colorful memory of the fall is walking home from college with my future husband. That's how we got to know each other over a year and a half when we went to the same small college. That's when I learned to skip through the colorful leaves and hear that wonderful crunchy sound. But I think falling leaves came a bit later in Michigan than here in Colorado. The array of colors is always magnificent no matter where I find myself.

But now with the air pollution here in Denver, it is difficult to go out very long for my walk in the colorful fall months. Fortunately my MEMORIES are still vivid and full of awesome colors.
