

The Dark

By Joan Mish

As I age I have had to give up driving after dark. I occasionally take some dinner over to my daughter and her three kids but they know I have to leave before dark and it usually takes me about a half hour to get home from their house. They will soon be moving and I believe it is a bit farther, according to my MapQuest information. But they are buying a large house with a bedroom that maybe I can say "That's Grandma bed?"

When I go out to enjoy the leaves in the fall season I have to be careful also in the dark. There are a few things that could make me slip if I don't see the bare spots on the sidewalk in the dark.

I used to go out to watch the various interesting moon sights but I'm not sure where to find them in Windsor Gardens. One night I sat out with friends to watch something special with the moon but I think the clouds covered it up!
